

and put a slight cut in it. Dr. Currey worked over him for about ten minutes and he came to, but was in a changed condition and very nervous. His mind was blank and he just stared at us. I could not question him any further in the condition that he was in. He was still sitting in a chair speechless when I left and returned to Somerville.

Respectfully submitted,

G. T. Purdy.